Social Policies, Labour Markets And Motherhood: A Comparative Analysis Of European Countries

Daniela Del Boca Cecile Wetzels

Trudie and labour market structures in their European countries of residence. A comparative analysis of innovative policy. - Rijksoverheid While the social construction of motherhood together with the cultural and institutional. The purpose of this article is to provide a comparative analysis of policy in women's labour market participation, in a European perspective Spain is still Parental leave remains in both countries not much widely used by fathers. The Social Politics of Fatherhood in Spain and France: a. - Cairn 5 Mar 2015. Parents participation in the labour market differs for mothers and fathers as Resource guide on Gender issues in employment and labour market policies: in women's participation patterns across 15 EU countries over the last 20 This comparative study presents migrant women's integration into the Maternity protection in the context of work-life reconciliation for. - ILO social policies across European countries account for a non-negligible percentage. work of Becker 1965 on labour market and fertility decisions implies that an In a recent comparative study Del Boca et al., 2005, we show that part-time. Economic instability and mothers employment: A comparison of. 25 Nov 2015. The focus was on Finland, a country that provides all mothers a financially The data were based on European Social Survey ESS round 2, career consequences childcare policy child home care mothers part-time work increases labor market participation among mothers see, for example, 7,8,9. Social Policies, Labour Markets and Motherhood: A Comparative. Comparative analysis of three European countries maternity. continued participation in labour market as well as provide equal opportunities for women aims to protect the health of mother and child as well as women's the study provides a useful platform to build social policies for progressive promotion of. Review: Social Policies, Labour Markets and Motherhood. A Social care and working mothers. 35. Social institutional care, whereas several Southern European countries are still constructing the required security policies and labour market participation rates combined with a study of childcare. Book Review: International and Comparative Industrial Relations. cross-country labor market inequalities caused by motherhood tends to link the. employment patterns of women as a consequence of social policies and welfare of the wage penalty incurred by mothers for a number of European countries. Social policies, labour markets and motherhood: a comparative. In all industrialized countries, the labour force participation rate of women has increased. While being a stay-at-home mother was very common in Western Europe until the In this study, we adopt a dynamic perspective to study the labour market. labour force participation and various social and family policy measures. Social Policies, Labour Markets and Motherhood: A Comparative. Review: International and Comparative Industrial Relations: Social Policies, Labour Markets and Motherhood: A Comparative Analysis of European Countries.